Jennifer Mickelsen is Director of Funding at the American Deposit Management Company, Jennifer is responsible for our work in the financial services industry. She understands that each client is unique and works to provide individualized solutions within the framework of ADMCo's core principles – safety, liquidity, and return. In addition, Jennifer is an integral part of the ADMCo. consulting team, specializing in human capital management and communication. From client relationships to human capital management, Jennifer is passionate about finding solutions and delivering results.

Jennifer's career in the banking industry spans 22 years. She began working at a Milwaukee-area community bank as part of a cooperative education program while in high school. For the next 15 years, Jennifer garnered experience in many facets of banking, including: retail, commercial, indirect lending, deposit operations, and administration. This experience paved the way for her transition into human resources management where she earned a reputation as a leader in her profession and became the President of the Financial Human Resources Association. In addition to her work experience, Jennifer holds a BS in Management from the University of Phoenix, where she graduated with honors and holds an advanced degree from the Graduate School of Banking from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

As a Southeastern Wisconsin native, Jennifer believes strongly in being an active part of the community where she lives and works. She was the Co-Founder of the Fernwood Ave. Neighborhood Association and Campaign Coordinator of both the United Way of Greater Milwaukee and the United Performing Arts Fund. She is an avid reader who enjoys travel, gardening, and riding on the back of her husband's Harley-Davidson.
